I came to furnished finder several years ago. I had rented part of my big house through other businesses (Airbnb/VRBO) when my three college age kids started leaving. But have had much more success, with FF. Mostly Travel Nurses, but also others looking for a furnished apt., for a longer stay, too. I started out with just a studio. FF kept it full much of the time. I was celebrating when my daughter graduated from Princeton. I was sad to see her go, but not to get income from renting her, now empty room! Soon I had two places to rent. Two studies that never seemed a problem to fill. The third one's on the way, and I've moved. Now I have a little remodeled and have a studio, one, two and three bedroom rent. So happy to have FF on my team, help me with my retirement! - Show your property When it comes to finding housing as a travel nurse, it can be very overwhelming. Where do you start? What if you bring a pet? Typical homes red flags? Craigslist comes to think of it first, but we've all heard the horror stories. So if not here then where? Where can you find short-term, affordable travel nurse housing? Well, we surveyed our Rock Star Recruiters and Travel Nurses to come up with this list of reliable and affordable options! Furnished Finder Furnished Finder is a great website that was launched at traveler's conference in 2014. Currently there are over 30,000 lists in their database! Our Rock Stars highly recommend this option because the website was specially designed with travel nurses in mind. Travel nurse homes are ideally furnished, close to hospitals and come with short-term leasing options. The properties at furnished finder hit all these items and even list their distance to nearby hospitals so you get a sense of your commute with every option. In addition, Furnished Finder does not charge any booking fees like vacation rentals, or markup rentals like traditional corporate residences, making them one of the more affordable options on the market. Pro tip: Take advantage of their scholarship calculator to compare housing expenses in any city you move to. Just search the city and state you're traveling to, and furnished finder breaks down the average rental prices of different housing options in your area. You can see the difference between rooms and whole units and it even shows you the percentage of homes that offer various perks as utilities included, or pets allowed. Allowed. to your next concert? Find our job here! Airbnb/VRBO If you've been on vacation anytime in the past decade, you've probably used or browsed Airbnb or VRBO. Airbnb and VRBO specialize in vacation rentals, but did you know that some hosts offer deals for monthly rentals? You can set the dates for your entire contract to compare the price, see what your savings are, and view an organized list of the property's amenities. Pro tip: Contact your Airbnb or VRBO host to see if they'd be willing to negotiate specific long-term rates. In our experience, VRBO hosts tend to be more flexible, but it never hurts to ask anyone. You may even be able to book with the property owner directly so you can avoid any third-party fees! Extended Stay America Corporate residential hotels such as Extended Stay America or Travelodge cater to travel professionals by offering daily, weekly and monthly rates. Extended Stay America boasts that their rates are 25%-35% cheaper than typical corporate housing options. Typically, with these suites, you will receive free daily breakfast, a fully equipped kitchen, cable TV, WiFi and on-site laundry. In addition, your recruiter or staffer may be able to obtain special business discounts if you are not eligible for one alone. Check out our Live Like a Local guides for travel nurses! Facebook Housing Groups Facebook housing groups like Travel Nursing: Places/Rooms For Rent, Furnished Finder, and Gypsy Nurse Housing allow you to connect directly with a landlord without interference from a third party entity. There are also other travelers on these sites who can provide instant feedback about the area. Ask about safer neighborhoods, affordable areas, commuting cities/city nearby, etc. But like Craigslist, you'll have to really dig to find gems. Often, property managers and landlords posting in the groups have not been vetted or verified. Accepting a rental on Facebook can come with big risks. To minimize risk, involve your recruiter in the vetting process, ask the right questions and compare the price of listing to other homes in the area. You'll be on your way soon! Hotpads/Padmapper Hotpads and Padfolders pull listings from Craigslist, but organize listings in a much more user-friendly way. You can use their interactive housing map to view the properties, and each site has the amenities that are clearly organized on one page. Apartment Home Living is another great resource. They market themselves as an apartment lifestyle brand and they are more geared to help you connect with the community you join in addition to offering some great housing options. Wherever you choose to start looking for your next home away from home, be safe, find your community and, as always, live your Rock Star life! The adventure awaits. Want to connect with one of our Rock Star Recruiters? Review today! Furnished Finder is perfectly equipped for travelers looking for help during under relocation needs. Whether you're moving to a job, just selling your home, or experiencing damage to your existing house, Furnished Finder has thousands of furnished properties to meet all your needs nationwide. Furnished Single Family Homes, Condominiums, Apartments, Rooms, Cabins and more, we connect you directly with the owner of the property, no booking fees.
